Sierra Landscape Development, Inc. has been involved in creating and improving California's landscape since 1983. They started out in the residential sector but have now expanded to cover commercial projects as well. They work throughout Southern California and have offices in Arcadia, California. They recently took delivery of a brand new John Deere CT322 compact track loader from Coastline Equipment Co.

Their new John Deere CT322 compact track loader is pictured above at a recent project for Claremont McKenna College. The versatility of this machine was key to assisting in the various applications this project required such as placing tree boxes, placing and planting various plants, installing 60,000 square feet of soccer fields and the hose bibs on 12 new tennis courts.

Kevin Watchler, Vice President comments: "When we were in the market for a new machine I knew that I wanted a John Deere. I have past experience with the John Deere brand and have always felt that they manufacture a superior product. This has been a phenomenal machine so far. We are pleased with its performance, versatility and the over all ease of use."

Kevin adds: "Coastline Equipment and their representative Mike Pettus have been fantastic to work with. Their product knowledge is unsurpassed. They have exceptional parts and service departments. I have been extremely satisfied working with Coastline Equipment.
